

Indian Airfields Under Attack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Indian government declared a national emergency today following Pakistani air raids on four northwestern Indian airports.

A Pakistani broadcast said jets of Pakistan's air force struck in retaliation for Indian ground attacks. India denied it had staged any attacks in the northwest, 1,000 miles or more from East Pakistan where hostilities broke out last month.

Air raid sirens wailed in New Delhi and the Indian capital was blacked out. But there was no sign of an air attack.

International airlines in London said they had banned flying jetliners to West Pakistan and Calcutta and New Delhi in India.

Radio Pakistan said the air attacks were carried out against airports at Avantipur, Pathankot, Amritsar and at Srinagar, capital of Indian Kashmir, a point of dispute between the two countries since 1947.

In New Delhi, President V. V. Giri issued the emergency proclamation on behalf of the government and said the action had been taken "because of the unprovoked aggression by Pakistan."

The president, the constitutional head of state, at the same time summoned both houses of Parliament into a special session Saturday to approve the "Defense of India Bill" — emergency legislation that would give the government wide police powers.

New Delhi airport was closed to international traffic until further notice. Internal flights have been diverted to airports other than Delhi.

Radio Pakistan said the air strikes were made "as a countermeasure to meet the challenge" of Indian attacks that began before dawn from India's Rajasthan Desert and southwestern Kashmir.

Earlier, an Indian spokesman in New Delhi had reported three Pakistani air attacks in northwestern India. Later he agreed with the Pakistani broadcast that there were four.

Until now all hostilities had been centered along the borders between East Pakistan and India far to the southeast.

An Indian spokesman said 18 Pakistani jets staged the attacks while ground troops shelled border posts in India.

Sirens sounded in New Delhi and air raid wardens ran from house to house warning residents to take cover.

"This is no practice drill, ladies and gentlemen," the spokesman told reporters.

Earlier in the day, the Indians reported Pakistani air strafing of the airport at Agartala in northeast India for the second straight day. Informants said Indian troops had crossed into East Pakistan near Agartala on Thursday and that the new Pakistani air attack was an attempt to blunt the Indian advance.

The three cities the Indians claimed had come under air attack are 1,000 miles or more away from East Pakistan, the center point of the conflict up to now.

Srinagar is about 200 miles north of New Delhi. Pathankot is about 150 miles north and slightly west of the capital and Amritsar is 120 miles to the northwest and only 10 miles from the border of West Pakistan.

Agartala, the capital of India's Tripura state, is 60 miles due east of Dacca, the East Pakistani capital. The airport, only 200 yards from the border, is the main supply depot for the Indian armed forces in Tripura.

Following the alleged Pakistani attack Thursday, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi ordered Indian troops to make a new attack into East Pakistan. It was the fourth incursion admitted by New Delhi in 12 days.

Pakistan meanwhile said that Indian forces had attacked at seven points around the borders of East Pakistan on Thursday but claimed the defenders inflicted heavy casualties.

Pakistani military sources said the attacks by infantry, planes, tanks and artillery were India's biggest offensive yet in the undeclared border war.

The Pakistani sources said the Indians attacked at points all around East Pakistan's 2,400-mile frontier and that the prime targets appeared to be two northern airfields, which were not named.

Officials in Dacca, the East Pakistani capital said the heaviest Indian attacks were made in the Panchagarh area of the Dinajpur district, in the northern sector, and from Agartala, toward Akhaura, in the Comilla district.

The officials claimed that Russian-supplied tanks were in action at both points and that the attacks were supported by the Indian air force as well as artillery.

The Indian government announced earlier that its troops crossed twice last week into East Pakistan in the Balurghat-Hilli region, where they still remain, and in the Boyra area, where they are said to have withdrawn.

Mrs. Gandhi said at a political meeting that India could not prevent East Pakistani insurgents from operating within Indian territory, and she again criticized the Pakistani army action in the eastern province.

"Killing thousands and thousands of human beings might not be of any concern to the world, but India is worried, and that is the reason which has prompted India to allow the refugees to come into India," the prime minister said.

SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

$4,000 Is Tree Goal

The annual Salvation Army tree of lights in Sedalia was decorated with 73 lights Friday, representing $730 in donations from area residents. The tree stands in front of Pettis County Court House and is the annual Christmas fund raising project of the Salvation Army.

Viewing the bulbs here are Major Marjorie Weber of The Salvation Army and Lacy Belt, chairman of the organization. Major Weber said that the tree of lights goal this year is $4,000. Each light bulb represents a $10 donation. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Shoplifting Results In Stealing Charge

Carolyn Wilson, Kansas City, is 24 years old, not 15 years old as previously reported. This information came to light in the investigation by Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax into a Nov. 26 shoplifting spree in Sedalia.

As a result of the investigation Hester Jean Drew, 24, also known as Carolyn Wilson, was charged Thursday in Magistrate Court with stealing more than $50 in merchandise from the C. W. Flower Co. in Sedalia.

Miss Drew, along with two companions, Miss Carolyn Hayes and Miss Shirley Townsend, were injured in an automobile accident in Windsor after attempting to elude Sedalia police officers in a high-speed chase that began in Sedalia.

All three were taken to the Windsor Clinic, and later to Bothwell Hospital. Miss Hayes and Miss Townsend were admitted and Miss Drew, giving the name of Carolyn Wilson, was turned over to the sheriff and placed in the county jail.

All three gave their ages as 15 to Highway Patrol officials investigating the accident.

The Hayes and Townsend women later walked out of the hospital and disappeared.

Deficiencies Found In Sedalia Schools

The Sedalia public school system will have 30 days to correct deficiencies found by city and state officials inspecting food services at the various schools, it was learned Friday.

City license and restaurant inspector William R. Brown and State Division of Health inspector James McClurg made the inspections over a two-week period, which ended Thursday.

Brown said that non-compliance in correcting the deficiencies might cause a cutoff in state commodity food assistance.

He told The Democrat-Capital that this was the first major inspection of the Sedalia schools in five years. Schools are required to be inspected every two years, Brown said.

Using the recently approved checklist for the inspection of restaurants, passed by the City Council, Brown said that the schools' number of demerits ranged from 18 to 34.

There are 118 individual items on the checklist and conditions are deemed serious when the demerits exceed 20. If a school had acquired 40 or more demerits, the food service could have been closed down immediately, Brown said.

Among the items most commonly

Miss Drew, then known as Carolyn Wilson, was scheduled for an appearance in Juvenile Court and in the ensuing investigation Sheriff Fairfax determined she was 24 years old. Fairfax told The Democrat-Capital Friday morning he has good reason to believe the two women still at large are much older than the 15 years of age reported.

The sheriff is still investigating the whereabouts of the remaining two women.

The chase leading to the accident began in Sedalia when Sedalia police stopped the car for a license check. The girls fled, and the police cars gave chase, which ended when the girls' car went out of control, struck a utility pole and a concrete embankment.

During the chase several plastic bags containing clothing were thrown out of the car. More bags containing clothing were found in the car after it was impounded by officials.

The items of clothing were allegedly taken from Flowers, J. C. Penney's and Russell Brothers. Police Chief William Miller estimated the total value of items taken at $1,120.

BULLETIN

Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of Sedalia schools, announced Friday that he had received two letters from Department of Health, Education and Welfare officials indicating their disagreement with a recent HEW hearing examiner's decision in Kansas City that the Sedalia school system was in compliance with school civil rights laws.

In a letter to Norris, Lloyd Henderson, director of education, Division of Civil Rights, HEW, said he did not agree with the hearing examiner, but was willing to meet with Norris or other representatives of the school board to reach a mutually acceptable agreement.

In another letter, Christopher Hagen, office of the general counsel, HEW, said his office was requesting from a reviewing authority an additional 20 days for the filing of specific exceptions to the examiner's decision and a brief in support of general and specific exceptions.

In a special meeting Friday, the school board instructed Norris to accept HEW's offer of assistance.

Sees Hope For World Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary John Connally says he's generally optimistic there will be some settlement to the world's economic crisis by the end of 1971.

Connally returned Thursday from high-level financial discussions in Rome with America's major trading partners and told a plane-side news conference:

"There's hope that we can settle it before the end of the year."

But then he cautioned: "I do not want to raise false hopes."

PARIS (AP) — Air pirates seized a Pakistani International Airlines jetliner today and threatened to destroy it and all aboard until French authorities began to give way to ransom demands for 20 tons of medicine for Bengali refugees.

After five hours of negotiations, two men wearing Red Cross armbands began unloading cases of medicine from a small pickup truck parked alongside the airliner and carrying them into the big jet at Orly Airport. As they did, seven passengers, six adults and an infant left the aircraft.

The French government had acceded in the face of the hijackers' threats. Although there was no official announcement, a fleet of trucks bearing more than a ton of penicillin and anticholera vaccine were dispatched through heavy traffic to the airport.

The plane was en route from London to Pakistan.

The airline's London office said the hijackers first ordered the jet to Beirut, Lebanon.

Only police said 28 persons were aboard, but the airline in London reported 16 passengers and 6 crewmen.

The hijackers seized the plane in the name of Bangla Desh, Pakistani guerrilla movement.

The Pasteur Institute, a national research and inoculation center in Paris, announced that it had sent a consignment of anticholera vaccine to Orly.

Toward evening, five hours after the hijacking began, passengers began leaving the big jet. Negotiations apparently began on the taxiway.

Two men, both in civilian clothes and waving a flag with a Red Cross on it, bounded out of a small service truck on the taxis and walked into view of the cockpit.

They apparently received a sign of recognition from inside the plane and went to its back door. It opened briefly and they talked for a moment with a stewardess.

The men did not enter the aircraft.

Calling themselves representatives of 10 million Bengali refugees who have fled from East Pakistan to India, the hijackers warned police to stay away from the four-engine Boeing 720B jetliner and said any action that could "look like intervening" would lead to the plane's destruction.

From their voices, heard on a control tower radio, and their written style, police assumed the hijackers represented a segment of the French population which has given support to the Bangla Desh guerrilla war, aimed at turning East Pakistan into an autonomous state.

Jobless Rate Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The unemployment rate jumped back up to 6 per cent in November even as the number of working Americans rose to a record high of 80 million, the government said today.

While total employment rose, many young adults lost their jobs, helping push up the number of job seekers to 4.8 million.

This is an increase of 210,000, seasonally adjusted, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

There were unemployment increases in virtually every category except for nonwhites, which declined markedly to 9.3 per cent from October's eight-year high of 10.7 per cent.

The rate for teenagers was unchanged at 17.0 per cent, the rate for adult men rose from 4.3 per cent to 4.4 per cent, for adult women from 5.5 per cent to 5.8 per cent, for married men from 3.0 per cent to 3.4 per cent and for full-time workers from 5.4 per cent to 5.8 per cent, the bureau said.

The rate for Vietnam veterans, which had dropped substantially in October to 7.0 per cent returned to its old level of 8.2 per cent.

The over-all unemployment rate has hovered around 6 per cent for a year. Last month it dropped 5.8 per cent.

The bureau also reported that average hourly earnings for rank and file workers declined two pennies last month to $3.47. This is still an increase of 18 cents or 5.5 per cent over a year ago.

Average weekly earnings last month were down 74 cents to $128.74, which is $7.67 or 6.3 per cent above a year ago. Latest inflation figures show that prices have risen 3.8 per cent in the 12 months ending last October.

It said the November increase in unemployment occurred almost entirely among full-time workers, mainly young adults who lost their jobs, rather than those seeking jobs for the first time or re-entering the labor force.

Talks of NASA Future

A small but interested audience, with a large percentage of young people, heard one of America's astronauts discuss future manned space flights Thursday night in an address at Smith-Cotton High School.

The speaker was Lt. Cmdr. Robert Crippen, who is with the Manned Space Flight Center, Houston.

Crippen presented an introductory speech, then a film showing the developments of the space program since the inception of manned space flights. A question and answer session rounded out the evening.

Crippen stated in his speech that there are only two lunar flights remaining in the Apollo program and that following these the emphasis of NASA will change to "Skylab," an orbiting module where as many as three different crews will spend up to 56 days studying the effects of space flight on human beings and doing earth studies from that vantage point.

Crippen is being trained for such a program, and cited his own work of reconstructing a lunar command module from a transitional vehicle to living quarters as an example of how the agency was using present equipment and knowledge to expand the space program.

Crippen's own philosophy got an extensive airing in the question and answer period as he defended the space program on several different fronts.

When asked how he could justify the large space budget while domestic problems were so great, he replied that while he realizes "there must be a happy medium on the amounts allotted to each," the space program has "provided many side effects that have benefitted us in the

To Present Musical

The Baptist Student Union Choir from the University of Missouri at Columbia, will present the folk musical, "Life," at 7:10 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist Church, Sixth and Lamine. The choir director is Bob Bohon, seated at left, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bohon, Route 2.

The choir consists of several other students whose homes are in Pettis and adjoining counties, according to the Rev. George T. Miller, pastor. The musical is open to the public, he said.

Church-Run Teen Center

Future Of 'Fish' Is Uncertain

Following 10 months of operation in the old Grange Building, Route 2, the Fish Coffee House, a church-sponsored teenage recreation center, will close on Dec. 11 because the structure has been sold.

An eviction notice was received along with the notice of the sale. The Rev. H. James Kane, pastor of Maplewood Church and manager of the coffee house, said he had learned of the action about 10 days ago. He said the Maplewood Homemaker's Club, owner of the building, sold it for $50 to Dr. Donald Eldenburg, Route 2. The club had allowed the building to be used as a teenage recreation center rent-free.

Mr. Kane said he hoped a new building could be acquired for the coffee house operation. "The present building is located about four miles east of Sedalia so a closer site to the city might be even more advantageous," he said.

Eddie Altis

The coffee house was started to give teenagers something to do on weekends. It was indicated that the sale of the building might force cancellation of an art exhibition planned by coffee house patrons. "We have already had seminars on drug abuse and film-making," Mr. Kane said.

The Grange Building was offered to Mr. Kane and the coffee house for continued use by Dr. Eldenburg, provided it was removed from its present location. Mr. Kane said he was not sure that the old building could be moved without collapsing.

Mrs. Allen Cusick, Route 2, president of the Maplewood Homemaker's Club, said the building was sold because it was deteriorating and repairs would have cost more than it was worth. "Some of the members of the club considered it a white elephant, so we decided to get rid of it," she said.

Talk on Pornography

The coffee house has planned a talk and a music program for this weekend. At 8:30 p.m. Friday a group of students from Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield, will sing a variety of folk and religious songs. The singers include Dan Rydstadt, a Geology major and a member of Chi Alpha, the Assembly of God student organization; and Miss Lona Jenkins and Miss Jama Dodson, both music majors and members of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

The group will also sing at 8 p.m. Saturday following a talk on "Pornography" by Eddie Altis, instructor in library science at Southwest Missouri State College. Altis, who is also a librarian at the college, holds a B.S. in education from SMSC and an M.A. in librarianship from the University of Denver.

Altis serves as faculty adviser to the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship chapter at SMSC, besides pastoring a Free Will Baptist Church near Norwood.

Both the talk and the music programs are open to the public. Altis will answer questions following his talk.

Harmony Youth Choir To Sing At Calvary

The Harmony Baptist Association Youth Choir will present the musical, "Who Wants To Be Free?," at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at Calvary Baptist Church, 16th and Quincy.

The choir consists of young people from Calvary, Flat Creek, Houston, Hughesville, New Hope and Smithton Baptist churches.

The choir will be directed by Mrs. Darrel Payne, Route 3. Accompanists will be Miss Nancy Preutte, Miss Re Teresa Tippie, and Keith Watson, members of New Hope Baptist Church.

"I've been trying to make them see, in a friendly, loving way, that I don't want to join a church with a rigid set of rules because I don't read about that in the New Testament."

Pat describes it all, his career troubles and the "miracle" that saved him for financial ruin, in the book. In an interview he said his "reawakening" or "regeneration" coincided with the birth of the so-called Jesus Movement among the long-haired young.

"I'm one of the Jesus people, a street Christian," he said.

Ironically, Boone and his family recently were "disfellowshiped" by the Inglewood Church of Christ they had attended for 10 years because of that church's disapproval of glossolalia—speaking in unknown tongues—through power of the Holy Spirit—an experience Boone affirms.

"The elders broke fellowship with the family—politely asked us to leave over the supernatural," he said. "We parted over whether miracles are still possible. I believe they are."

His book describes a few miracles, including the apparent

"Kids turned off by organized religion, who went the whole trip with drugs and group sex, are suddenly becoming very fundamental Christians. I think more and more the organized church will recognize the validity of the free-form Jesus movement."

Such epithets, Pat writes in his latest book, "A New Song," "cast me in the role of a square, a guy just a little bit out of the mainstream of life. And I was starting to wonder, myself."

Born in Jacksonville, Fla., the son of a building contractor, Boone was reared in the Church of Christ in suburban Nashville. He preached for one of its churches, and performed his first baptisms, for about a year while attending North Texas State College.

But in the mid-1960s, after winning top honors on the Ted Mack and Arthur Godfrey talent shows, recording such million-sellers as "Love Letters in

Applications
To Rezone
Given Okay

The Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday night approved an application by Parkhurst Manufacturing Co., Inc., to rezone 64.91 acres from one-family dwelling to heavy industry.

The land, east of the intersection of the Lexington branch of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad tracks and North Highway 65, had been zoned for residential use prior to Thursday night's action.

The rezoning was sought to allow the company to expand its operation, Robert R. Parkhurst, executive vice-president of the company, told The Democrat-Capital Thursday.

The exact nature of the expansion program, however, was not disclosed by Parkhurst officials, who said that no definite plans had been made yet.

A second rezoning request involved changing five lots near Inter-State Studio, 601 West 16th, from local business to general business.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy M. Snyder, Marion E. Schmidt and the New Hope Baptist Church are listed as owners of the property. The move was made, according to Snyder, who appeared with his wife to present the application, so he could extend a photo color lab to the alley bordering his land on the west side. Under previous zoning a building could not extend to the alley.

Bob Cain, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission announced at the Thursday meeting that he had volunteered to serve as a member of Sedalia's Environment Quality Control Commission.

The Planning and Zoning Commission's recommendations will be sent to the City Council.

Jaycee Vote
Is Against Taxation Plan

The Sedalia Jaycees Thursday night voted 18-8 to oppose a proposal to establish a one-cent tax on carbonated soft drinks, it was learned Friday.

The action is in direct opposition to a Missouri Jaycees request that various charter clubs in the state support the measure, which, if passed, would provide new revenue for the Missouri Conservation Friday.

In other action, it was announced that Paul Harper had been named winner of the Sparkplug Award at the recent Region 4 meeting here.

Jan. 27 was set as the date for the annual Distinguished Service Award banquet. The Jaycees are currently accepting nominations for Outstanding Young Man, Outstanding Young Educator and Outstanding Young Farmer awards.

Open House Set
By College Here

An open house will be held at the State Fair Community College Automotive Technology Building from 2 to 4 p.m. Dec. 11, it was reported Friday.

Area residents will be given an opportunity to tour the new facilities and listen to discussions by staff members concerning the types of programs to be offered.

A social hour will be held from 3 to 4 p.m.

Released From Jail

Ernest Dean Keeke, 2003 South Warren, charged with tampering with a motor vehicle, has been released from the Pettis County jail on a $1,000 bond. It was reported after his preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court Thursday that he remained in jail.

New Tax Relief Bill Is Now Up To House Action

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill to let Missouri's state income taxpayers deduct the cost of their children's or their own education reached the House of Representatives today.

Such legislation has regularly failed in the past. Today's proposal was introduced by Rep. J. Anthony Dill, R-Afton. There was no indication how much it would reduce state revenue but the amount would be substantial.

A new Senate bill by Sen. Edward Stone, R-Chesterfield, would set up a system for nonresidents who have moved out of Missouri to vote for president by absentee ballot if they are registered with the secretary of state.

Expect Bid
For Ouster
Of Israelis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. diplomats expect Egypt, in the Middle East debate starting today, to ask the General Assembly to demand that Israel withdraw from all Egyptian territory seized in the 1967 war.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad was to open the debate this afternoon with a 45-minute speech. Diplomatic sources said his main objective probably would be an assembly demand that Israel comply with the proposals presented last February by Gunnar Jarring, the special U.N. envoy for the Middle East.

In an effort to lay the groundwork for peace negotiations, Jarring sought simultaneous pledges from Israel that it would withdraw from all Egyptian land and from Egypt that it would enter a peace agreement with the Israelites.

Egypt agreed, but Israel refused, and Jarring's attempt to hold indirect peace negotiations with himself as go-between broke down.

The Swedish ambassador returned to New York Sunday from his regular post at Moscow and since then has talked with Riad and Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah.

The Middle East debate was scheduled to begin Thursday but was postponed at Egypt's request so a group of African foreign ministers could report on recent visits to Egypt and Israel by four African heads of state.

Presidents Leopold Senghor of Senegal, Ahmadou Ahidjo of Cameroon, Yakubu Gowon of Nigeria and Joseph Mobutu of Zaire were sent as mediators by the Organization of African Unity.

Reports from Cairo said the African presidents favor a revival of Jarring's mission.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban is scheduled to speak to the assembly Monday.

Sisemore's Case
Under Advisement

Joe Sisemore, 22, Route 3, appeared in Sedalia Municipal Court Friday morning and pleaded innocent to a charge of disorderly conduct. Judge Lawrence Englund took the case under advisement.

Sisemore was returned to custody of the Pettis County Sheriff's Department and is being held in the county jail for investigation of a parole violation. He is free of the city charge on a $50 bond.

Sisemore was arrested Sunday by city police near 16th and Arlington after police had received a report that a man was acting strangely in that area.

The arresting officers said Sisemore was wearing only boots and dark pants at the time of his arrest. Sisemore told the court Friday that he does not remember what occurred on the day of his arrest.

The nonresident voting change is required under a U.S. Supreme Court decision.

Another new Senate bill would pay the handicapped $3 a day, instead of $2, for six hours of work in a sheltered workshop. The estimated first year cost would be $357,000.

Another revises the ballot form for voting a county tax of up to 20 cents to support county sheltered workshops.

Thirteen other Senate bills were merely routine revisions of present laws to conform with later enactments, making no substantive changes.

Bills to tighten air and water pollution laws, which failed to clear both houses last spring, were re-introduced in the House Thursday.

The "clean water law" passed the House but languished the rest of the session in the Senate Committee on Public Health, Welfare and Environment. The air conservation bill ended the session on the House calendar.

A bill providing that the state pay the full cost of operating Missouri Southern College in Joplin, instead of just the last two years, also was re-introduced. It was killed in House committee last spring.

A new House bill would let the state Park Board pay training school boys $25 a month, instead of $15, for their off-season work in parks.

Tax Measure
Is Nearing
Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill cutting taxes $15.8 billion over the next three years and postponing beyond 1972 the hard-fought issue of tax financing for presidential campaigns apparently is on its way to enactment.

A Senate-House conference finished fashioning the measure Thursday, making a deep concession to President Nixon's opposition-backed by a veto threat—to the dollar checkoff campaign financing feature.

The White House strongly implied Nixon would sign the bill, but reserved the right to seek repeal or some other means to prevent the campaign-checkoff provision from going into effect.

The provision would allow individuals to contribute $1 to a presidential campaign fund by checking a box on their income tax returns.

The conference committee bill would give Nixon essentially what he sought in tax changes designed to stimulate the economy.

But it is a blow to Democratic hopes that the checkoff plan they devised could yield their deficit-plagued party $20.4 million for the 1972 campaign.

The conference voted to postpone the checkoff until 1976. And even for future elections the actual disbursing of the funds would require appropriation legislation by Congress, which could be subject to presidential veto.

For individuals, the bill would mean an extra $25 personal exemption this year, an extra $50 next year.

For low-income persons, the special minimum deduction would be boosted next year from $1,000 to $1,300.

The excise tax on automobiles and light trucks would be repealed, an average saving of $200 for car buyers and a stimulus to the big-employing automobile industry.

Industry generally would benefit from a revived investment credit, permitting a 7 percent tax writeoff for spending on productive equipment.

Chairman Wilbur D. D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, offered the compromise on campaign checkoff.

Mills told newsmen afterward he was not convinced the House would pass the bill in its initial form and was convinced Nixon would veto it.

A veto, he said, would be devastating to the economy, since all the tax provisions would be in doubt for months.

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, denounced the compromise as "monstrous gimmickry" and said an effort still might be made to kill it on the House floor.

Hall told the board that recycled paper produced $32.50 a ton in revenue in St. Louis. "We certainly have a problem (with paper disposal) and something has to be done about it," he said.

The board also discussed the fact that Missouri is not in compliance with the Federal Unemployment Tax Act, a situation which Hall said could cost state merchants as much as $140 million a year in additional taxes.

He read a letter from Gov. Warren Hearnes, sent recently to businessmen in the state, concerning pending legislation to correct the situation. The letter said Hearnes would recommend to the legislature "in January that it quickly pass a bill containing only those changes necessary to meet federal requirements."

The letter urged employers to contact their state representatives and senators to prompt favorable action on the bill.

Now's Time To Cut '71 Taxes

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ray De Crane is the author of "Cut Your Own Taxes," an income tax guide created especially for readers of this newspaper. In this article, De Crane points out the need for getting your 1971 financial affairs in order before January, 1972.)

By RAY DE CRANE
CLEVELAND — (NEA) — The remaining days of this year are decisive ones for those who would hold down their 1971 income tax bill to the smallest amount possible.

Early January is no time to get an idea where you will stand with Internal Revenue. By that time the die is cast. You will already be locked in; nothing done after Jan. 1 will possibly change your tax outlook.

Now is the time to take an "early bird reading."

Congress passed a new tax law this year. Some of the new provisions can be used to your advantage in trimming both this year's and next year's tax obligations.

The biggest opportunity comes in the area of deductions. For many years you have been offered the choice of either itemizing your deductions or of taking a standard deduction amounting to 10 per cent of adjusted gross income. The ceiling on this deduction was $1,000.

Now the rate has been upped to 13 per cent and the ceiling has been raised to $1,500. Next year it will be improved even more, to a 15 per cent rate and a $2,000 ceiling.

All right, you ask, how can this help me? How can I use the new rules on deductions to my advantage?

Let's assume your total taxable income will be $12,000 for this year. Let's also assume that your "early bird reading" on your deductions shows that they total approximately $1,000 so far. This is what this sort of advance checking on your tax return should tell you.

You know that you will be able to claim a standard deduction of $1,500 for the year. Therefore, the payment of anything less than $500 for additional deductible items in the remaining days of this year will simply be wasted from a tax standpoint. Wherever possible, defer these optional payments until next year.

This could include medical payments, the balance on a pledge for a church building fund or charity drive, even interest payments on a loan.

Now let's put a slightly different twist on the same income bracket taxpayer and illustrate how an understanding of next year's tax rules, and the proper use of this knowledge, can save you money in two consecutive years.

This time we will assume the same $12,000 taxpayer can total $1,200 in the deductions so far — still under the $1,500 he can obtain for his standard deduction. But he has an unpaid $500 dental bill he is not obligated to pay until next June and a remaining balance of $400 on a church pledge that is not due until next fall. What should he do?

If he can spare the money — it would even be advisable to take a loan, if necessary, and pay the interest on it — he should by all means pay off the addition $900 in deductible items before year end.

This year, then, he will itemize his deductions and get full credit for all of them. For next year, with his prepaid dental bill and church pledge out of the way, he should strive to hold down his deductions and then claim the $2,000 standard deduction next year. In this way he will have materially reduced his taxes in each year.

Unless you are in the $100,000-and-over income bracket, there is no lowering of the tax rates for either this year or 1972. So there is no point in deferring income, where possible, from one year to the next.

The personal exemption has been raised to $675 for this year and will go even higher in 1972. While this will serve to reduce your taxes in both years, there is little you can do to take advantage of this situation. Unless, of course, you are planning either a marriage or a divorce.

In that case, get married in December, but wait until January to get divorced.

There is one other important area where taxes can be reduced should you be a stock market investor.

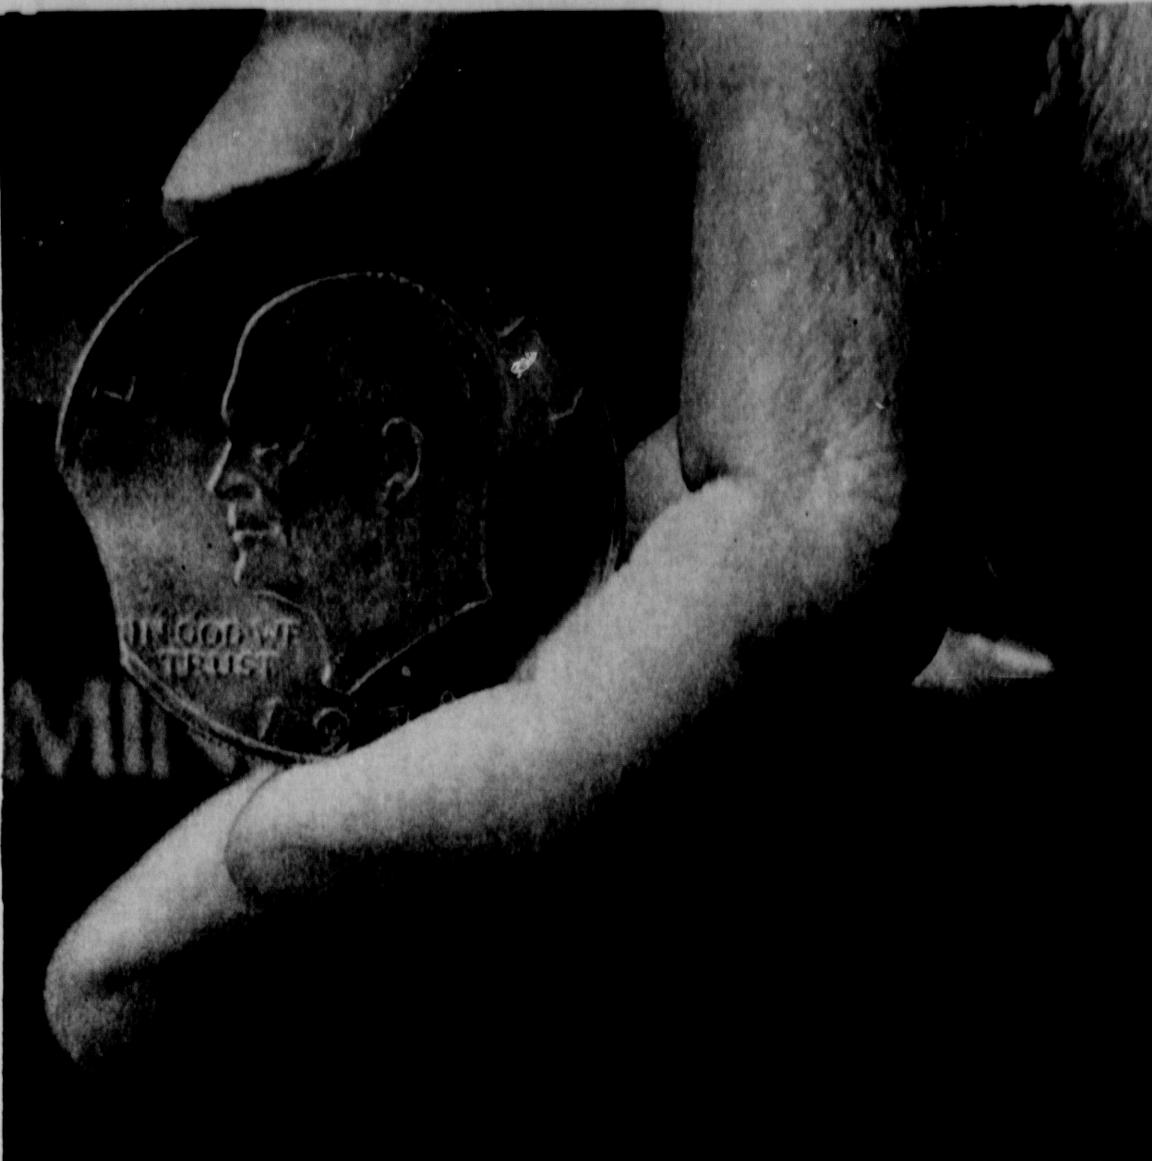

Check your stock transactions for the year. Separate them into short-term transactions (those held six months or less before a sale) and long-term transactions (stock held longer than six months before being sold).

Within each group offset your gains against your losses, arriving at a net position in each. Now cancel your short-term gains against your net long-term losses. How do you wind up?

If you have a final short-term gain it will be fully taxable. Maybe you have a "paper" loss in your portfolio that you could take to cancel out this gain. The loss could be either short-term or long-term. If your final figure is a short-term loss, it is fully deductible up to a maximum of $1,000 against other income in any one year.

Try avoiding winding up in a net long-term loss position. Your loss will only be applied on a 50 per cent basis in reducing other income up to the $1,000 maximum in any one year. In other words, it will take $2 of losses to offset $1 in income.

If this is your position, look for the opportunity to take a gain — either short-term or long-term — in the final days of this year.

Rare Coin

This uncirculated 1971 Eisenhower silver dollar was "clipped" by a coin press at the Denver Mint and wound up at the Capitol State Bank in Oklahoma City Thursday. Head teller Mrs. Bonnie Bessinger said it was rare since few damaged coins escape the federal inspectors at the mint, and added that it is the first to be reported in Oklahoma City. The value of the coin is questionable since the chip can be duplicated with metal cutters by anyone. (UPI)

Olin Corp. Talk Topic At Meeting

Sedalia Kiwanians heard a talk on Olin Corp. and specifically the Olin Conductors plant here, at their meeting Thursday noon at the Bothwell Hotel.

Plant manager Bob Hardwick said the local plant was part of Olin Corp., which has annual sales in excess of $1 billion and employs 60,000 people.

He said the Sedalia plant currently employs 203 people and works a seven-day-a-week, 24-hour-a-day shift to manufacture aluminum electrical conductors.

Hardwick said Olin Corp. considers Sedalia to be one of its leading plant communities, and added personally that in his estimation relations between the plant and the community had been excellent.

Ben Benson, technical superintendent at Olin, explained the various conductor lines made by the company and the stress tests they are put through.

The program was introduced by John Ryan.

Club financial contributions announced included a donation of $45 to send one delegate to Girls State, and a pledge of $500 to the proposed Sedalia Community Center.

The creation of two Kiwanis Club scholarships at State Fair Community College also was announced. Each scholarship will be for $160 and will be limited to Pettis County students. They will be awarded in the fall of 1972.

Birthday greetings were extended to Judge Job Harned, and singing was led by Abe Rosenthal, accompanied by Mrs. Keith Maynard.

Invocation was by the Rev. Medford Speaker.

'Trench Planting' Said Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department tests show that tomato growers in Texas may be able to get an early jump on the tomato market by planting their crop in trenches rather than on top of beds.

The department said tests conducted in the Lower Rio Grande Valley showed tomatoes planted in trenches matured three weeks earlier than tomatoes planted on top of beds and produced a significantly higher yield.

Tomatoes planted in trenches, it said, produced 14 tons per acre compared with 9 tons by the conventional planting method.

The tests showed that soil temperatures in the conventional beds were about 17 degrees warmer than in the trenches at midafternoon but dropped quickly at night. Soil in the conventional beds remained at the lower temperatures for about 12 hours.

Although the soil temperature in the trenches did not exceed 68 degrees during the day, it did not drop as low at night, the department said. In addition, the tomatoes in trenches had about two per cent more moisture and were not subjected to as much wind, the department reported.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tighter controls over the wholesomeness of meat imported into the United States has been proposed by the Agriculture Department.

The department said it has proposed that foreign meat entering the United States be inspected only in federally inspected plants or in official import inspection establishments approved by the Consumer and Marketing Service.

Currently there are no fixed standards for import inspection points.

Marketing Service officials said adoption of the proposal will result in a more efficient and thorough examination of imported meat.

"It seems absolutely clear to me that we reduce and even endanger our national security by developing and procuring costly and ineffective weapon systems.

"If the weapons we develop are so costly that we cannot afford enough of them, and if they are so technically complex that they are unreliable and difficult to maintain, we have done the nation a disservice by developing and procuring them," he said.

Also scheduled to testify Friday were Gilbert Fitzhugh, the chairman of the President's Blue Ribbon Defense Panel.

If the cost increases are "not sharply reversed, then even significant increases in the Defense budget may not insure the force levels required for our national security," Stennis said.

If the cost increases are "not sharply reversed, then even significant increases in the Defense budget may not insure the force levels required for our national security," Stennis said.

Stennis said he is concerned with "geometric" increases in the cost of weapons, and, in effect, whether the nation will be able to get the best bang for the buck.

If the cost increases are "not sharply reversed, then even significant increases in the Defense budget may not insure the force levels required for our national security," Stennis said.

Oklahoma Covered With Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A gentle storm rode light winds across Oklahoma Thursday, but left a traffic-strangling, school-closing blanket of snow behind it that ranged up to waist deep in the west.

Highest official snowfall report was 11 inches in Dewey County. Unofficial reports ranged to 13.

Traffic snarls of 15 to 75 cars blocked roads near Clinton, Hydro, Chickasha and Woodward.

Schools were ordered closed today in Taloga, Edmond, El Reno, Hitchcock, Darlington, Altus, Vammosa, Canton, Longdale, Thomas, Binger, Hinton, Cement, Hillsdale, Deer Creek, Freewill Bible College at Moore, Pathway pre-school at Spencer, Eagley and Woodward.

More than 180 traffic accidents were reported Thursday as the storm eased across the state.

Woodward received 11 inches of snow, and U.S. 270, the main road to the Panhandle, was closed for a while.

Oakwood in Dewey County also reported 11 inches. Some points in Dewey County reported an unofficial 13 inches.

Erick, Roll, Durham, Weatherford and Hammon reported

10 inches of snow.

Elsewhere across the western and central parts of the state, the accumulations ranged mostly from four inches up.

Some parts of Oklahoma City reported five inches.

But, there was a good side to the storm.

"I've never seen such a beautiful snow," said Mrs. Genevieve McDonald of Fairview.

Patty Duke Finds Serenity at Last

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — There's a new Patty Duke these days. Gone, hopefully for good, is the uptight Patty Duke, the tantrum-throwing Patty Duke, the little girl with the big problems.

What we have now is a calm, serene Patty Duke and the change is remarkable. She thinks maybe motherhood had something to do with it, but there's more to it than that.

"I'd been through a year of unbelievable turmoil" she says, which is putting it mildly. There were romances and marriages, gossip and tattle-telling, the birth of her son — Sean Patrick Duke is his name, and the fact that his name is Duke speaks volumes as to what she has gone through.

"People kept telling me what to do," she says, "and I tried to please them all. So I went away, to Palm Desert — in the summer! — for a few months to sort things out, to get my mind together. And I realized that the important thing was that it was my life I was leading, and I had to lead it to please myself and only myself."

She says, among all her problems, was a strong feeling of guilt. She owes her career largely to John Ross, the man who found her when she was eight and turned her into an actress. They had a falling out after she was grown and she hadn't seen him for five years.

Finally, she wrote him a letter, but didn't mail it. Instead, she decided she would drop in on him personally — but the day she was to go, John Ross died.

His widow sent word that she didn't want Patty at the funeral. Then she changed her mind and Patty went but Mrs. Ross "was very hostile." Patty, as part of her personal therapy, went to see Mrs. Ross some days later and made her peace.

She feels good about that, now. She also feels good about her career. She did a recent movie-for-TV called "Two on a Beach," which she was proud of. She has also done a Hollywood Television Theater for PBS, a Night Gallery and another TV movie for Aaron Spelling.

Burnett Show Opens Fifth Season

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — How do you explain Carol Burnett?

She's the only girl since Dinah Shore who has made a success of fronting a TV variety show, and many have tried. Now in her fifth season on CBS, she heads up one of the four variety shows on TV this season, the only one with a girl in charge.

She is attractive, but hardly beautiful. She is no whirlwind as a dancer. What she has going for her are two major assets — she is unexcelled as a comedienne, and she has that rare quality of warmth that conquers the coldness of the TV screen.

Folks back home in their living rooms get the feeling that Carol is a friend, and that's the stuff of TV success.

It looks as if she's going to become a hardy perennial on TV. Before she's done, she may break Ed Sullivan's longevity record. The only thing that can possibly stop her is her own desire.

At the moment, she has that desire. She loves her work, the people she works with, the whole operation of turning out a show every week.

"It feels like a part-time job to me," she says. "I'm always home in time to be with the kids when they come home from school. I have a week off every once in a while. And I have long vacations in the summer. It's super."

She's content. She isn't looking for new worlds to conquer, but the new worlds are looking for her.

CBS keeps after her to do specials, in addition to her regular show. She and Julie Andrews got together for one, taped in New York's Philharmonic Hall, which will be aired Dec. 7.

This spring, she'll do her second movie — the first one was something she'd rather forget. It will be a Ross Hunter production called "Hollywood, Hollywood," and it's a '30s film (Hunter had success in that era before, with "Thoroughly Modern Millie"), the story of a singing star and a dancing star and the girl who dubs in their singing and dancing.

Mitzi Gaynor and Carol will play two of the three leads, but the third part has not yet been cast.

There is also talk of doing "Once Upon a Mattress," the vehicle which propelled her to fame on the Broadway stage, again as either a movie or a TV special. It was done once on TV, but Carol wasn't happy with the result.

She says that Joe Barbera, of the Hanna-Barbera animation cartel, wants to do it as a combination live-animation TV special.

"He has made some wonderful sketches," Carol says, "but it's too expensive to be done right now."

Helping to make Carol's current existence beautiful are her three daughters — Carrie (7), Jody (4), Erin (3). She says all three are comics and they'd like to be the Hamilton Trio (Carol is married to her producer, Joe Hamilton) except that there already was a Hamilton Trio, which used to dance on the old Show of Shows.

This fall, Erin started nursery school and came home from her first day and announced that she had a boy friend in school, and he was black.

Carrie looked up from her coloring book and said, "Guess who's coming to dinner."

Carol remembers that, at their ages, she was interested in being funny, too.

Audience Hangups Dissolve In Liquid Theatre

By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Among the things I wouldn't know if I hadn't gone to the James Joyce Memorial Liquid Theatre are:

(1) How difficult it is to stand and look into the eyes of a stranger.

(2) How many inhibitions I have in public about doing everything from taking off my tie to singing.

The Liquid Theatre (named after James Joyce because of a remote connection between its conception and a speech by a character in "Ulysses") just moved to New York from Los Angeles. is the ultimate example of participatory theater, in which the traditional theatrical ambition to involve the audience with the actors is raised to the nth power.

About the only way the audience could be more involved, in fact, would be if there were no actors at all. And the Liquid Theatre approaches that state of artistic virginity when, at one point, the audience finds itself in the center of a large room, dancing, while the young hippie-ish cast sits in the seats applauding.

The whole tranquil experience bears much the same relationship to traditional theater that singing along with Mitch bore to Handel's "Messiah".

Audience members arriving at the Guggenheim Museum, Frank Lloyd Wright's snail shell of a building that turns into a perfect environment for the Liquid Theatre at night, are given colored bags. It is suggested they put in the bags anything they would feel more comfortable without, which usually means such things as shoes and ties and purses. (This brings on the first trust crisis of the evening.) Then one sits or lies on zebra-striped inflated cushions on the floor, singing along with a cast member, watching a belly dancer (who, if she was supposed to symbolize male chauvinism, sexism and voyeurism, was perfect for the part), or playing low-key encounter games, such as one in which cast members divide the audience into stranger-stranger pairs and ask them to stand, with eyes closed and hands touching, so they can get to know each other.

People are led off a few at a time — grouped according to the color of their bags — to the next stage of the proceedings, in a tiny alcove. There, after a word game for relaxation's sake, another cast member divides his group into new pairs. Then he asks everyone to look into the eyes of his partner and try to communicate.

My partner was Marcia (I confess that I did not learn this through eye contact alone; we exchanged names before the gazing period began). And since it happened that she was an attractive young lady, I found it difficult to communicate such things as "What do you think of Sartre?" and "Nice weather we're having, isn't it?", notwithstanding the fact that my wife was not far away, no doubt confronted with not dissimilar male chauvinist tactics. It was at once embarrassing, pleasant, troubling and exciting, with the result Marcia and I parted friends, or at least two people who had been friends for a minute or two.

At this point there is what passes for intermission, during which one puts the colored bag in a check room, drinks warm, scented tea and sits down on more air cushions in another remote corner of the museum while waiting one's turn to go through the "Maze."

The Maze is aptly named, for though you close your eyes and are led through it by cast members (another trust crisis), psychologically it is a maze in fact. Hands stroke your face and brush your hair, you are hugged and find yourself hugging back, you feel cool and warm, alone and loved, and just about the time your apprehensions have subsided and you feel yourself relaxing in spite of yourself, you are kissed gently on the lips, voices whisper, "Welcome," and you are asked to open your eyes.

When you do you find you have your arms around a young lady and a young man from the cast and it occurs to you that the young man, with long flowing hair and mustache to match, has been in on the kissing. It doesn't seem unnatural in context, but visiting firemen from Kansas City are hereby forewarned.

After the Maze, everyone wanders about the big circular room for awhile, playing impromptu party games, toying with the long diaphanous curtains that hang all over, blown by unseen fans, listening to a rock band or just sitting in the seats around the perimeter. (I had lost my wife by this time.) Then the cast gradually groups the audience in the center of the circle and performs a brief pantomime of the Creation, which is principally a prelude to another small group segment as the cast members each take 10 or so spectators and lead them in such activities as tossing one of the group gently in the air (again testing your willingness to trust people), or lightly patting someone who is lying, face down, on the floor.

Finally each group begins chanting a miscellaneous chant of its own invention (ours was "Watch the Fords go by") and starts snake dancing around the room, scattering inhibitions as they go. Then comes a brief stop while each group hums a different note, creating a hymnal chord that vibrates through the room. Soon everybody forms circles, then a crowd pressing into the center of the circle, humming all the while until it all climaxes with a shout and the lights come up to show the cast in the seats, applauding the audience.

After that one can stay and dance or play with balloons in the swirling lights of a discotheque atmosphere. As my wife (I finally rediscovered her, happily, after the lights went up) and I left, there was a slightly paunchy man about 50 or 60, still bouncing around the room in his stocking feet, smiling as he batted balloons with his nose and bald head.

Italy Passes Divorce Law

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Since divorcio, things are getting tough for the garconiere.

That's the word from Italy's premiere divorcee, Luciana Paluzzi. Luciana received Divorce No. 1 when Italy's new laws, legalizing divorces, went into effect. She had actually been divorced for eight years from Brett Halsey, but that was in the United States and Italy never recognized it.

She says she would have been jailed had she remarried and tried to go home to Rome. The Italians would have called her a bigamist. So she remained unwed.

She was thus ready when Italy passed a divorce law. She was the first and got her divorce with no problem. She says the expected mob scene at the divorce court has failed to materialize.

"The funny thing is," says Luciana, "that what's happened is that the new divorce law hasn't broken up marriages as much as it's broken up extramarital domiciles."

In Italy, they call these relationships "garconiere" — a man keeping a girl on the side.

"The men with the garconiere," Luciana says, "used to tell their girls that they couldn't marry them because there was no way to divorce their wives. But now they don't have that excuse any more, so the girls are walking out. The men have to go home to their wives. Divorzio is making the men faithful again."

As for Luciana herself, now that she is free she intends to stay that way. She says she has no intention of remarrying.

"I won't remarry," she says, "unless I find I am going to have a baby. I would live with a man, but I won't marry him until or unless I find I am pregnant."

"I think marriage is outdated and serves no useful purpose. As a matter of fact, I think that a relationship between a man and a woman that are not married has a better chance than if they are married — a man will do more to keep a woman happy if he isn't sure of her."

Luciana Paluzzi, still one of the world's great beauties, was back in Hollywood to promote her new movie, "Cometogther." She thinks it's a good one, a film that lives up to its intent, which was purely to entertain.

While she was here, she was looking around for work. She lived in Hollywood for two years — that was when she starred in the TV series, Five Fingers — and she likes it here. Her English is near-perfect and she uses words like "flabbergasted" correctly.

Yet, in "Cometogther," she plays an American girl and they dubbed her voice.

"I even dream in English," she says. "That makes me feel as though I belong here."

She has been busy in Italy despite the movie-making slump which she says is as bad, or worse, in Europe than it is here. She says that the Italian film industry depends, for its prosperity, on exporting films to the U.S.A. And, since U.S. films are having problems making ends meet, Americans are just not about to import much from abroad.

"It's funny," she says, "but Italian film producers resent the fact that the United States is not taking their films now."

Commission Warning For Big Businesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission has warned American businessmen against assuming they can pass the full cost of high wage increases on to their customers.

In reducing a requested price hike from a coal company, the commission Wednesday placed itself at odds with the Pay Board which recently okayed a 15 per cent wage and benefit increase for coal miners.

The decision also raised Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson to status as the dominant figure within President Nixon's apparatus for battling down inflation.

"This coal settlement was made after the wage guidelines were known," Grayson said in announcing that the Old Ben Coal Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of Ohio, would be allowed to pass along only 9.6 per cent of the wage hike.

From now on, Grayson said, the commission "will take a very careful look" at any request for a price hike based on wage settlements above the Pay Board's 5.5 per cent guideline.

Was he saying that firms which sign hefty wage contracts approved by the Pay Board are not yet "out of the woods" when they go before the Price Commission?

Grayson responded with a firm "yes."

In the case of Old Ben, the commission allowed a 3.78 per cent price increase. The firm had sought a 6.71 per cent hike.

Officials of the United Mine Workers said the commission's actions would have no effect on their newly negotiated contract.

But Carl E. Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, said in a sharply worded statement:

"If, with one hand, the government has approved a wage contract, another hand of government cannot legitimately compel the industry to operate at a loss."

Grayson said the same criteria used in limiting Old Ben will be applied across the board in the coal industry.

Grayson also described preliminary results of a survey the commission is taking of the pricing intentions of the nation's top 1,500 businesses.

Of 500 who answered a survey request, he said 20 per cent will not raise prices, 60 per cent said they would request modest increases and 20 per cent were noncommittal.

There were, meanwhile, these other economic developments:

— The Senate approved 86-4 and sent to the House a bill giving President Nixon a year's extension, to April 30, 1973, of broad powers over the economy.

The problem, this official added, is finding a way to convert what basically is a local issue into one that fits into the GOP's national campaign portfolio.

"Probably the best way is to tie it in with revenue-sharing," he said in reference to a major Nixon proposal pending before Congress.

Sharing federal revenue with the states, they contend, would allow a cut in property taxes.

Political planners also say the issue has emotional appeal — fact the White House already shows it is aware of.

For his Thursday speech, Nixon aides plucked from the White House mail a letter from a woman who wrote that her 73-year-old father, "too ill and tired to work," is being forced to sell the property "for which he worked so hard and so long" in order to meet his real estate taxes.

"These inhumane tax laws must be changed," Nixon quoted the letter as saying.

"She's right," he added, to the applause of the 3,000 conference delegates. "They should be changed."

Tax Increases Are Used For Campaign

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — As the campaign season nears, President Nixon is moving to build major national issue out of the growing public unhappiness over rising local taxes — especially property taxes.

White House political advisers generally agree that the economy and world affairs, including the Vietnam war, now rank as the top issues in the 1972 presidential campaign.

But several strategists said in interviews that the question of local taxes is a "sleeper issue" — one that they said Democrats have largely ignored.

Nixon raised the issue himself Thursday before flying south for a working weekend at the Florida White House. He told the White House Conference on Aging that he is preparing "specific proposals to ease the crushing burden of property taxes for older Americans, and all other Americans."

He didn't elaborate, but said "the time has come to stop talking about the impact of property taxes on older Americans and to act in their behalf, and in behalf of other citizens in similar circumstances."

It is in the white, middle class suburbs that Republican strategists see the greatest potential for political gain by cultivating the issue.

Economic Measure Gets Fast Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Banking Committee has given quick approval to Phase 2 legislation extending President Nixon's economic controls, in a bill very similar to one cleared this week by the Senate.

The measure, on which the House probably will act in about 10 days, grants Nixon's request for economic authority through April 30, 1973.

However, it goes beyond Nixon's recommendations and somewhat beyond the Senate provision in requiring payment of previously contracted pay raises frozen during the initial clampdown.

The bill, approved by the House panel Thursday, provides for payment of such raises retroactively unless they are unreasonably inconsistent with the general pattern of the industry.

The Senate version, passed Wednesday, requires consistency with Pay Board standards. Nixon wanted the whole issue left to the board.

Both bills provide the President must take measures to stabilize interest rates or make a formal finding that such action is not required. Nixon wanted only standby authority.

Both bills provide for suits by consumers if they are wilfully charged prices higher than those approved by the Price Commission.

In this area, the House committee version is tougher. It would allow suits for three times the full price of the purchase, up to $1,000. The Senate version would limit the suits to three times the overcharge.

Both measures provide in different terms for complaint machinery and appeals procedures.

The Senate bill would exempt from price and wage controls newspapers, press associations, broadcasters and publishers of magazines and books.

Benton Will Paint Centennial Mural

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Thomas Hart Benton of Kansas City has agreed to paint a mural to be unveiled as part of Joplin's centennial celebration in 1973, says the centennial committee.

The committee said Benton agreed to undertake the task because of his close ties with the area. Benton was born in nearby Neosho, Mo., and his first job was with a Joplin newspaper, the American.

The 5 1/2-by-10-foot mural will be placed above the entrance to the city council chamber. The committee said Benton plans to depict conditions during the mining boom decade of 1896 to 1906.

VD Can Spread Just From Kiss

Dear Dr. Lamb — My friend told me that if you kiss a person on the lips, if he's got a sore on his mouth you can get VD. Is this true?

Dear Reader — That depends upon what the sore is. A chapped lip, a fever blister (cold sore, or herpes simplex) or a fat lip after a football game isn't likely to cause anyone any trouble except for the guy with the lip.

Your friend is correct, however, if the sore on the lip is the early sore that sometimes occurs from an infection with syphilis. Kissing anyone who has the contagious stage of syphilis can result in infection whether or not there is a sore on the lip. All the germ needs for transmission is wet or fluid environment and the moisture in the mouth from saliva is such a vehicle.

Although kissing can transmit disease, more often the disease is transmitted by what comes after the kiss.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am writing about a five-month-old child cutting teeth. The mother takes whisky and rubs the gums and gives the balance to her undiluted. The child bangs her head on things. Don't you think this is dangerous? Maybe you can enlighten her.

Dear Reader — It is not likely that the whisky will eliminate any bacteria or problems locally where the teeth are. The alcohol in the whisky may act like a mild anesthetic — or not so mild if it is given in significant quantities and often. It doesn't take very much alcohol to affect a five-month-old tot. This practice cannot be

Dole Not Consulted On Choice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the Republican national chairman, said Thursday he was not consulted about a choice to succeed Clifford M. Hardin as agriculture secretary.

Dole made the comment in an interview following the Senate's confirmation of Dr. Earl L. Butz as the new secretary.

Senate approval was by a vote of 51 to 44, with some senators from agricultural areas opposed.

Dole said he would have suggested somebody else had the administration consulted him. He said he wasn't asked, nor were other Republican senators. He found out about the Butz selection, he said, 90 minutes before it was announced.

"We weren't consulted, we were introduced," Dole said, adding that unfortunately this has become the pattern of the administration in dealing with the Senate on its nominations.

Dole said Butz' impact on the 1972 campaign will depend on his performance. "It's up to him to demonstrate he's out to get every dollar he can for the farmer."

Democrats have indicated they see a 1972 campaign issue in the selection.

"The Democrats think they have something going here, and maybe they have," Dole said. "It gives them a chance to hash all the old problems."

Aged Conference: Sham or Meat?

WASHINGTON — When a nice guy like Arthur Flemming works so hard to organize something like the White House Conference on Aging, you want it to be a success.

When the outcome involves the health, well-being, dignity of more than 20 million people, most of whom have sacrificed to project their children and grandchildren into happy affluence, you hope that the fruits of the conference will be many — and immediate.

That is why I have struggled to fight off the skeptics who insist that Flemming and those 3,500 delegates were just props in a political ploy to woo 1972 voters from the aged (who make up 10 per cent of the population but 17 per cent of the vote).

But when you look at the ideology of the Nixon administration and its track record over 34 months, you find it hard to believe that our senior citizens will be much better off in 1973 than they are in 1971.

As Flemming pointed out forcefully, the great need of our aged is money. One-fourth of them live below the poverty line in hunger, sickness, squalor, lonely isolation. Most of those above the poverty line still know an abundance of misery, with inadequate fixed incomes eroded away by incessantly rising prices and soaring taxes.

When all the rhetoric has faded, it remains clear that Social Security is woefully inadequate. The private pension plans in too many cases have been unfulfilled promises. There simply will never be sufficient income available to our aged until the government adopts a policy of a guaranteed minimum income.

Leon H. Keyserling says the country must have a universal minimum income program, administered by the federal government and "financed entirely out of progressive taxation on a pay-as-you-go basis."

In other words, those middle-age Americans who now live lives of luxury would be taxed — heavily — so that aged people who opened the doors to their affluence might know something more than shameful neglect.

Some will tell you that the Nixon administration's proposed Family

Assistance Plan (with an income floor of roughly $2,400) would be a step in this direction. The trouble is the President has personally led a campaign to build up anti-welfare emotions in this country, with the result that his "welfare reform" bill faces a future almost as bleak as that of the very young and the very old who need a humane welfare program so desperately.

Then there is housing. Six million of the 20 million aged live in sub-standard housing. Yet in 10 years only 350,000 apartment units have been built specifically for the aged. Congressional Quarterly points out that while two-thirds of the aged own their homes, they can scarcely afford to live in them. Taxes and repairs take up to half of the owners' income in some cases and "the neighborhood deteriorates, crime increases, their relatives move to the distant suburbs, leaving them alone and isolated in the decaying city."

It must be obvious that the aging are doomed to isolation in decaying central cities as long as the administration pursues policies where, for social and economic reasons, housing for the poor is not "forced" on suburbs and the cores of our cities remain prisons for the voiceless and the hopeless.

Why can't we have tax exemptions for the aged who own less than a decent level of possessions? Our tax laws offer myriad bonanzas (fast depreciation, investment credits, depletion allowances) for the well-heeled. Isn't it about time we lifted the burden off 70-year-olds who have sweated and strained to get most of us where we are?

Then there is health. People over 65 are shellshocked out an average of $791 a year for health care, or nearly three times the average outlay of people 19 to 64. Medicare covers only 43 per cent of this and, even counting other help, it means an annual out-of-pocket health expense of $225 for a person over 65. That is a stupendous outlay for a person with what the Census Bureau says is a median annual income of $1,951.

Most White House conferences tend to be political exercises that cost a lot of money, produce a mountain of promises and yield a molehill of results.

Our aged have known enough cruelty. Let us hope that the conference just ended becomes the source of some joy for them and not just another bitter pool of political gamesmanship.

Can a Stover boy make good amid the evils of the state capital, even if Ralph Nader is his idol?

Carl M. Wilson, 25, is willing to give it a try.

Wilson is chairman of the newly formed "Citizens Lobby" in Jefferson City, described as the product of a year's research into "political alternatives" in Missouri.

He organized the Citizens Lobby along with Raymond Appleton, who is state director. Wilson is taking leave from the law school at the University of Missouri to help manage the Lobby. Appleton is an honors student in political science at MU, and also is 25.

Wilson is a 1965 graduate of Stover High School, where he was a first string basketball player. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wilson, live on Route 2, Stover.

I found Wilson by phone at his home in Kansas City, and asked him what it was all about.

"We have probably taken the best elements of Nader's Raiders and Common Cause," he told me. "But our organization is going to be more concerned with specific problems."

Among the problems the Citizens Lobby plans to tackle, according to Wilson: secrecy in legislative committee voting, regulation of lobbyists and reform of the structure of the Legislature itself.

Lobbying, research and investigation, testimony before legislative hearings and ultimately even lawsuits will be the means by which the Citizens Lobby will work, Wilson said.

"We will also act for citizens who have a problem, sort of an ombudsman concept," he said.

Wilson said the Lobby hoped to be moved into its Jefferson City office by the first of the year. Eventually branch offices might be opened in St. Louis and Kansas City.

Wilson is immediately concerned with rebuilding metropolitan areas in St. Louis and Kansas City, and heading off similar problems in Missouri's smaller but growing cities. His partner Appleton is specializing in tax reform proposals.

But whatever reforms will be achieved, cannot be unless the Missouri Legislature is equipped to do it, Wilson said.

"With all the problems of the 70's, it is necessary to have a legislature equipped to handle the problems."

The metamorphosis of Sen. Stuart Symington from hawk to dove is described in an article in the current Atlantic Monthly, "The Education of a Senator," by Flora Lewis.

In his 30 years in government, 20 of them in the Senate, Symington has risen to a position of prominence. Miss Lewis calls him one of the 15 or so most influential senators in Washington. He sits on both the Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees, each a choice assignment in its own right.

Not a man to be taken lightly, our senior senator. And the story Miss Lewis tells, after extensive interviews with the senator, is well worth reading.

Today's Playground Is Safe and Sterile

Recess isn't what it used to be, at least not in Sedalia it seems.

This was one of the points brought out at the latest public meeting with the Sedalia school board, held Tuesday night in Smith-Cotton High School.

Some parents expressed concern over the lack of playground equipment at the elementary schools in the city, and the board's reluctance to even allow one PTA to purchase new equipment for its school.

The modern thinking in this area seems to be that playground equipment is too dangerous for kids. Better to blacktop the area and stress organized games, rather than individual fun such as seesawing, sliding, swinging, and the like.

As a result, the Sedalia school system has not been replacing such equipment as it wears out. In some cases it has been removed before then.

It was reported that a University of Michigan study has revealed that kids tend to get hurt on playground equipment.

No doubt this is true. But who has done a study on the BENEFITS a kid gains from, say, going down a sliding board? Or swinging? Or spinning with his friends on a merry-go-round?

We submit that this might be an equally valid consideration, though much less adaptable to the kind of statistical summary one can make on playground injuries.

There is something a little sad when playgrounds are asphalted over and all the fun equipment removed. Organized games, as necessary as they are, may not be a totally satisfactory replacement.

WASHINGTON — We have now established a direct link between a campaign payoff to President Nixon and his efforts to restrict textile imports.

The textile quotas he has squeezed out of Japan will wind up costing the consumers billions in higher clothing prices. This illustrates how a few hundred thousand dollars in campaign contributions can buy billions in special benefits.

It also proves that an investment in a presidential campaign can bring a greater return on the dollar than any other financial deal. Or as Common Cause crusader John Gardner has put it, "The vast influence of money in politics is the 'dirty little secret' that everyone knows."

The giant textile mills mounted a backstage lobbying campaign in 1968 for government protection against Japanese competition. Such textile tycoons as Roger Milliken of Deering Milliken and Bob Stevens of J.P. Stevens met in the backrooms with Hubert Humphrey, then vice president, who headed a cabinet task force on textiles.

Guardedly at first, they offered to cough up cash for his presidential campaign if he would support textile curbs. As his campaign needs became more pressing, they became more explicit. They promised to raise a campaign chest in the six figures if he would issue a strong statement in favor of import limitations.

Three witnesses, whose identities we have agreed to withhold for the moment, have given us first-hand reports of the textile offer. No exact amount was mentioned, except that it would be in six figures. One witness said it was "understood" the textile potentates would raise over $200,000 for the Humphrey campaign.

Humphrey, meanwhile, asked the Tariff

Merry-Go-Round

Textile Barons Paid
For Nixon's Favors

Commission to determine whether the textile industry was in such serious straits that it needed protection against Japanese imports.

The commission found that the industry had "enjoyed a period of unparalleled growth since the early 1960s" and that "there has been a marked expansion in sales, employment, and new investment in plant and equipment. Similarly, overall corporate profits increased."

In short, the commission found no justification for pampering the textile industry. Humphrey, accordingly, refused to make a deal with the textile tycoons.

They had better luck, however, with the Republicans. Through Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., say insiders, the same financial offer was made to Richard Nixon. He was asked, in return, for a statement promising to limit textile imports.

Nixon not only agreed to issue the statement, but it was released from the office of none other than Strom Thurmond. Later, Nixon put out another statement in Greensboro, N.C., reiterating his support of the textile industry.

Even more significant, he exempted textiles from his campaign call for free trade. At a press conference, Nixon urged "moving ahead toward free trade rather than protection," saying: "I take a dim view of this tendency to move toward quotas."

But he quickly added, as a sop to the textile tycoons, that textiles were a "special problem." This prompted the Journal of Commerce to comment that the special problem was "much more political than economic."

Competent sources say Roger Milliken, in keeping with the secret offer, led a drive to raise campaign funds for Nixon. The total sum collected from the textile crowd would be almost impossible to trace. But insiders say it surpassed $300,000.

The Honolulu inspectors, therefore, would do well to spend less time reading tourists' private papers and more time reading their own regulations.

Senator Thurmond, responding to inquiries, acknowledged his role in soliciting Nixon's campaign statement on textiles. Thurmond also confirmed that it was released through his office. But he denied any knowledge of the fund-raising offer. Milliken was unavailable for comment.

Sources inside the industry, whose reliability cannot be challenged, told us money was raised for Nixon as a direct result of his statement supporting textile curbs. What's more, Nixon kept his campaign promise to the textile potentates despite a warning that textile quotas would increase clothing prices by about 15 per cent and would impair relations with Japan.

This crass case history, revealing how government favors are traded for campaign contributions, should be added to the compelling argument for campaign spending reforms.

American overseas travelers, returning home through Honolulu, have complained that Customs officials have forced them to open their wallets and display their credit cards and private papers.

When one traveler complained, the inspector then rummaged through papers in his wife's handbag, pausing to read personal notes. Since both travelers had just come back from Moscow where they got a similar going over, they were understandably outraged.

As it happens, Customs regulations ban such snooping. "The reading of personal or other communications carried on or by persons arriving in the U.S. is not authorized and may not be undertaken by Customs officers," say the rules.

The Honolulu inspectors, therefore, would do well to spend less time reading tourists' private papers and more time reading their own regulations.

Try to Accept a Son For What He Is

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter signed "Ill In Illinois" — from the woman who was so upset by her son's homosexuality that it was making her a non-functional, nervous wreck. I sympathize with the guy because I'm in the same spot.

Two years ago (at the age of 18) I made the mistake of telling my parents I was a homosexual. They became hysterical, begged me to change, and asked me to see a psychiatrist. I told them I was perfectly happy with my life. I have a wonderful male friend. We get along fine and I have no interest in heterosexual relationships. I am not a screaming queen. I don't go to gay bars looking for pickups. I am a productive person and very successful in my work.

I am wasting my parents' money by seeing a psychiatrist but I go to satisfy them. I find myself becoming resentful of their involvement in my life, which is more of a problem to me than homosexuality. I can understand their disappointment, however. We are a religious family and they long for me to marry and have children. Thank you for telling "Ill In Illinois" to try to accept her son as he is because the chances of him changing are very slim. I, for one, appreciate

Dear G.B.A.: You've made your statement — and I made mine to "Ill In Illinois," for which I received plenty of criticism. It's O.K., however. I can take it as well as dish it out.

Dear Ann Landers: What does a person say to a friend who has had her nose done over? Does one mention it? I caught by surprise the other day — and I'm sure I made a fool of myself. I just stood there — speechless.

I have never read anything about this subject, Ann, and the etiquette books don't deal with it. Please advise. — New Rochelle

Dear N.R.: Miss New Nose could and should have helped you out by asking, "How do you like it?" She knew you were surprised to see the alteration and it would have been gracious of her to cushion the shock.

If the occasion should rise again (and it will, new noses are contagious — when one gal does it, it gives the other courage), simply say, "You look great."

Dear Ann: I'm a typical teenager and my parents are typical parents. They keep telling us how hard it is to bring up children these days. (There are three teens in our family). What I want to say is this: It's not only hard for them to raise US — it's hard for us to be raised by THEM.

I realize my parents have lived longer and experience is a great teacher, but why don't they understand that kids must have their own experiences? We want to try out our own ideas. We don't want theirs — all worked out and neatly packaged. I am different from my father. He is himself and I am me. I am not a revolutionary, but I'd like to change some things that he thinks are fine.

Every teen would like to sit down with his parents and tell them what he thinks and why. No yelling and arguing — just open discussion. When I tried last week I was called "stupid, foolish, too young to know anything," so I won't try it again.

Maybe if my parents (and others who treat their teenagers like morons) see this letter they will understand how it looks from the other side of the fence. — Walled Out

Dorsey Uses Crowd to Flee From Officers

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A convicted murderer and robber, Clarence Dexter Dorsey, 23, broke away from two sheriff's deputies in the Jackson County courthouse and sprinted through crowds to freedom.

The officers chased him but did not dare shoot because of the people.

Police described Dorsey as extremely dangerous.

He was serving a 35-year sentence in the Missouri Prison for armed robbery, and was taken to the courthouse Thursday for a hearing on reduction of the sentence. Dorsey dashed away after the deputies took off the handcuffs in the hall.

Police said Dorsey escaped in 1969 from the Alabama prison where he was serving a life sentence for the murder of a storekeeper who was hit on the head with a large electric iron.

He pleaded guilty to taking $12 from a Kansas City lawyer at gunpoint Jan. 28, 1970.

DEAR POLLY — Bernice wanted to know how to remove grease from her permanently pressed tablecloth. I find that running these through the coin-operated dry cleaners does the trick. If she prefers, she could send them to a professional dry cleaner. This works on most permanently pressed things. — BERTHA

DEAR POLLY — Tell Bernice she can possibly remove grease spots from her permanently pressed tablecloth with a medium thick paste of cornstarch and cold water. Spread fairly thick as soon after the spotting as possible and let stand several hours or overnight. Make a suds of laundry detergent (I use liquid and cold water) and, after brushing off the dried cornstarch, rub gently with the detergent solution, using a soft brush or nylon net. Launder as usual. I do not promise this will work after other removers have been tried but it does work on fresh grease spots. I also use this method on men's white or colored shirt collars. — VERNA

DEAR POLLY — I suggest that Bernice try a spotting agent with trichloride to remove the grease spots from her permanently pressed tablecloth. There are several brands on the market that are even available in most dime stores. I assume she has washed the cloth several times which would set the stains permanently so little could be done. If possible, she should take the cloth to a professional dry cleaner for his opinion. — J. O.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I have not been able to successfully clean my old coin silver jewelry due to the delicate filigree design which cannot be scrubbed briskly. I would appreciate some suggestions. — K. S.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is that manufacturers of baby clothes do not get together on the same size standards for S. M. L and Ex-L. It is so hard to tell grandmas and others who ask for baby's size and also confuses mothers if they are in a hurry and do not read the weight specifications as well as the size. — MARGIE

DEAR GIRLS — As one of those grandmas, I find the size markings very confusing as just the size is not sufficient for the small ones but they must be further identified as Toddler or Regular two, three or whatever. — POLLY

Ready for Springfield Parkview

S-C Tall, Quick, Experienced, Determined

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

Needless to say, 6'4" senior Steve Herzberg, who has been a starter for the past two seasons in Jim Dinsdale's Smith-Cotton lineup, will be getting a starting nod on the front line when the Bengals open their 1971-72 basketball campaign Tuesday at home against Springfield Parkview.

It also goes without much thought that 6'7" all-CMC center Kim Anderson will be in the starting lineup as well.

Doug Maple, who was a part-time starter last season with the Bengals when they posted a 21-6 mark and won the Lexington Class L Regional Tournament, will be in one of the back-court positions.

Dinsdale has indicated that Don Tatman, who saw enough varsity action last season to earn a letter, would team with Maple at the other guard position.

The remaining starting forward position will probably be relegated to Bob Fingland, a much improved 6'2" senior.

The Tigers not only have good size inside with Anderson (6'7"), Herzberg (6'4") and Fingland (6'2"), but they also have fine speed in the backcourt with Maple and Tatman. Likewise, both guards possess the range for outside scoring.

If Dinsdale should run into some zone defenses (which he probably will), he can stick Herzberg outside. Herzberg has been noted for his shooting accuracy since he was a sophomore.

The remaining starting forward position will probably be relegated to Bob Fingland, a much improved 6'2" senior.

Dinsdale, confident in the upcoming campaign, makes no bones about his chances, but he doesn't really know how good his team is.

"I think we can hold our own with anyone we'll face this year, but I can't say that for sure until we play someone," he says.

Dinsdale's biggest problem so far has been being able to find the right combination within his reserve and junior varsity corps to hold back the starting five in practice sessions.

The Tigers' size, speed and quickness is not where the strength ends in Dinsdale's 1971-72 squad — he also has depth.

Senior Tim Waters, 6'6", has improved and can fill in on the front line if the Tigers run into foul trouble.

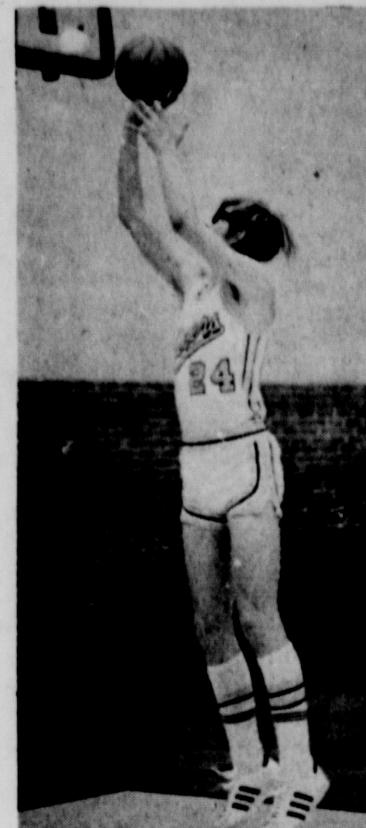

6'3" Terry Buckner should battle Fingland for one of the starting forward positions and Jim Sanders, a talented 6'4" sophomore guard-forward, gives Dinsdale a strong bench.

"I'm really looking forward to the start of the season," Dinsdale comments, "and I know the kids are ... they are really enthusiastic."

The Tigers have a rough road ahead of them with teams like Springfield Parkview, Raytown, Springfield Glendale and Dinsdale likes it that way. The Bengals have a score to settle with Parkview, one of the two teams to defeat them outside of conference action last season. The Vikings handed

S-C their worst defeat of last season, 94-57, in Springfield. Dinsdale hasn't forgotten about that pounding by Bob Brown's squad — neither have the Tigers.

NC Rolls Over Rice, 127-69

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dean Smith, University of North Carolina coach, and Don Knodel, Rice coach, can take credit for two of the biggest understatements of the young college basketball season.

"Everything went well for us and badly for Rice," said Smith after his Tarheels had opened their campaign with a record-setting 127-69 rout over the Owls Thursday night.

"It is obvious we can do nothing but get better," commented Knodel.

"We knew this could happen," added the Rice Coach, "but hoped it wouldn't. North Carolina deservedly is No. 2 in the nation. They were just a tremendous team tonight."

The No. 1 team, UCLA, winner of the last five NCAA championships, opens its season tonight at home against the Citadel.

Two other members of the Associated Press Top Ten were in action Thursday night. Houston, No. 7, was upset by California 84-81 in double overtime, and eighth-ranked Long Beach State crushed Corpus Christi 91-51.

North Carolina, last season's National Invitation Tournament champion, equalled two school records with its 127 points and 52 field goals against Rice. Both records had been set in a 127-76 romp over Richmond in 1966.

"Rice plays the sort of game that tends to set a fast tempo," explained Smith. "That was why it was such a high scoring game."

Smith also said he was pleased with the performances of two sophomore starters, Robert McAdoo and Bobby Jones. McAdoo scored 17 points and Jones 16. Dennis Wuyck led the Tarheels with 24 points.

Bill Chamberlain, the Most Valuable Player in last season's NIT event, did not play. He was suspended Nov. 24 for failing to run the last wind sprint during a workout.

Eric Long's foul shot with 15 seconds to play in the second overtime enabled California to upset Houston. Substitute Harry Brown came into the game midway in the second half for the Bears and scored 13 points, including two baskets that helped overcome a four-point deficit in the second extra period.

Long Beach State burst to a 54-27 halftime lead against Corpus Christi, then scored the first 13 points of the second half and coasted the rest of the way. Ed Ratliff and Lamont King led Long Beach with 21 points apiece.

Meanwhile, Bob Young's 33 points and 14 rebounds paced Rhode Island to an 88-70 victory over Manhattan, and Bob Sherwin's 28 points led Army to a 79-73 triumph over Niagara in a doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Ken Boyd hit 15 of 25 field goal attempts and scored 35 points, helping Boston University edge Boston College 85-83, and Harvard nipped Northeastern 57-54 on Tony Jenkins' three free throws in the final 13 seconds in opening round games of the Beanpot Tournament at Boston. The winners meet for the title Dec. 13.

Maury John, coach at Drake University for the past 13 years, made a successful debut at Iowa State as the Cyclones blitzed Arizona 71-54 in the first game played at the $8.1 million Hilton Coliseum in Ames, Iowa.

Mustangs Into Title Contest

(Democrat-Capital Service)

TIPTON—Behind the 26-point performance of David Byrd, the Eldon Mustangs roared into the championship game of the 33rd Annual Tipton Invitational Basketball Tournament with a 62-50 decision over School of the Osage, Thursday night.

Eldon jumped out to a 17-7 lead by the close of the first quarter and was never headed.

Eldon will take on the winner of tonight's Jefferson City-Sacred Heart contest in Saturday's championship game.

In Thursday's only other contest, host Tipton was dropped from the consolation bracket by suffering an 84-76 setback at the hands of Versailles.

With the win, Versailles earned a berth in the consolation bracket in Saturday's 6:15 p.m. tilt with Lincoln Lab of Jefferson City.

Byrd, along with teammate Keith Whitworth, kept the Indians at bay all through the game. Whitworth followed Byrd in the scoring column with 12 points; they were the only two players in double figures.

Ted Vernon had a standout night for the losing Osage cause, but got little support to go with his 20-point production.

Tipton held a two-point lead in their contest with Versailles as the second period opened.

S-C Soccer Team To Play

The Smith-Cotton Tigers open their 1971-72 soccer season Saturday in Kansas City's Swope Park in a round-robin tournament with the other schools in the Metro Seven Soccer League.

In addition to the Tigers, other schools include Kansas City Rockhurst, Bishop Hogan and Pembroke Country Day, as well as Kansas City, Kan., Ward and Bishop Miege and Savior of the World of Bonner Springs, Kan.

Each school will meet the other schools in one period of competition.

The Tigers, who are in the second season of interscholastic soccer competition, will begin their regular season in Jennie Jaynes Stadium by hosting Bishop Hogan, Wednesday.

Against Cowboys

Jets May Go With Namath

DALLAS (AP) — Broadway Joe Namath, the fastest gun in the East, hopes to start his first regular season game since October, 1970 Saturday in Texas Stadium against the surging Dallas Cowboys who are trying to clinch their sixth consecutive trip to the National Football League playoffs. The fact the New York Jets are struggling for a 500 year means little to a sellout crowd of some 65,000 who will be on hand for the nationally televised match.

The combination of the Cowboys fighting for a playoff berth and Namath's appearance kept the town abuzz during the week.

Namath fired three touchdown passes last Sunday in a relief appearance for the injured Bob Davis against San Francisco but he wasn't happy. He said he kept feeling "pressure sometimes when it wasn't there."

Dallas, although it has an 8-3 record and leads the National Conference Eastern Division by a half-game over Washington, hasn't put much pass defense pressure on anybody this year.

The Cowboys lead the NFC in defense against the rush but are dead last in pass defense.

"I'd say our cornerbacks, Herb Adderley and Mel Renfro, haven't had the seasons they had last year," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "But that's Dallas has some fireworks of its own offensively.

Quarterback Roger Staubach is the No. 1 ranked passer in the NFC and is a double-barreled threat with his scrambling.

Dallas has won four consecutive games—all since third-year man Staubach was installed as the first-string quarterback over Craig Morton.

There was a possibility running backs Duane Thomas and Calvin Hill would be in the starting lineup together for the first time. Fullback Walt Garrison is nursing a charley horse in the thigh and Thomas has been working at Garrison's position.

Garrison is the leading pass receiver on the team.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The New York Yankees and Texas Rangers traded the first shot before the crack of dawn and by the time the smoke had cleared there was an army of playing talent swapped at the winter baseball meetings.

Such illustrious troops as Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles and Rich Allen of the Los Angeles Dodgers were among 28 players who changed uniforms in eight trades Thursday.

"We've been hesitant to deal Frank Robinson—for four years, we've been hesitant, but we felt that with our outfield depth we could afford it better now," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver after shipping Rich and Mike Paul, outfielder Roy Foster and catcher Ken Suarez.

These deals followed in lighting-like order:

—Texas traded catcher Paul Casanova to Atlanta for catcher Hal King.

—Houston traded first baseman John Mayberry and infielder Dave Grana to Kansas City for pitchers Jim York and Lance Clemons.

—Baltimore made the Robinson deal.

—Los Angeles unloaded Al-

—The Chicago White Sox

traded infielder Rich McKinney to the New York Yankees for pitcher Stan Bahnsen.

—Los Angeles sent catcher Tom Haller to the Detroit Tigers for cash and a player to be named at a later date.

The Dodger acquisition of Robinson was the blockbuster.

The 36-year-old slugger is one of the few men in baseball with more than 500 homers to his credit and is the only player to win the most valuable player award in both the American and National Leagues.

His trade from the Cincinnati Reds to the Orioles six years ago has been the talk of baseball since because the so-called "old man" led Baltimore to two World Series victories and four American League pennants.

North's two-club opening was artificial and forcing. South's two-diamond response was also artificial. In most systems this response is a sort of catch-all but North and South were playing JACOBY MODERN and this two-diamond call denied holding more than three high-card points.

North's three-club rebid showed a club suit as did South's bid of three spades. One of the great advantages of JACOBY MODERN is that the diamond response which denies more than three high-card points allows responder to show a bad suit later on with no fear that partner will take him too seriously.

Some promising 3 year olds are ready to run at FITZWILLIAM MOTORS, INC.

Along with some choice two, four and five-year-olds.

It's the second outing for most of them, but it's only the first time around for some of their working parts.

Those are ones we replaced.

And some of the parts we didn't replace, we either checked or adjusted.

It's all part of our exacting 16-point inspection.

Only those cars that pass the test, carry the blue and yellow colors of our 100% Used Car Guarantee.

That way, you can be sure that the car you select won't fade after 12 furlongs.

One final thing.

Since they're all Volkswagens, they won't require much feed.

And since they all have air-cooled engines... well, you know what they say about leading a Volkswagen to water.

*The dealer guarantees 100% to repair or replace the engine, transmission, rear axle, front axle assemblies, brake system and electrical system for 30 days or 1000 miles, whichever comes first. Only those cars that pass our 16-point inspection get this guarantee.
